Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA)
STUDENT CONSENT FORM
for Parental/Guardian or Third Party Access (Optional)

It is important for all students at WestConn to be familiar with the laws and procedures that govern access to student records. The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 (amended in Jan. 1999), commonly referred to as FERPA, is a federal law that is designed to protect the privacy of and limit access to the educational records of students. No one outside the university shall have access to nor will the university disclose any information from a student's educational records without his/her written consent, with the following exceptions: students' educational records will be open to personnel within the university, officials of other institutions in which the student seeks to enroll, persons or organizations providing financial aid, accreditation groups, persons in compliance with a judicial order, and persons in an emergency in order to protect the health or safety of students or other persons. Parents of a student who is officially documented as their dependent for income tax purposes may see a student's record only at the discretion of the university.

You may sign the Student Consent Form if you wish, but this is not required. When completing the form make sure you write the name of the person(s) with whom you wish us to share your records and check off only the information you are willing to release (enrollment/attendance records, financial aid information, judicial/disciplinary records, and grades/academic standing). You may choose to release all or some of this information. It is your decision!

Please note that if you also want to release either your health records, mental health records or disability documentation, this Student Consent Form cannot be used. You must visit the university's Health Service, Counseling Center, and/or AccessAbility Services office to complete their respective "release of information" forms.

Once you have filled out the Student Consent Form, you must bring or send it to the Dean of Students, Old Main, Room 306, 181 White Street, Danbury, CT 06810 where it will be processed and kept on file. You can revoke your consent at any time by submitting a written request to the Dean of Students. Please feel free to contact the Dean's office at (203) 837-9700 if you wish to discuss these issues in greater detail.
