CELEBRATING STUDENT-CENTERED FACULTY WHO ARE PASSIONATE TEACHERS AND ACCOMPLISHED SCHOLARS.

ACADEMIC YEAR 2020-21

Dear Colleagues,

It is with great pride that I present the 2020-2021 issue of Creative Activity at Western Connecticut State University. While I am always proud of the impressive work developed and presented by our faculty, the work this year represents an overwhelming effort in the face of the chaos and uncertainty presented by COVID-19. Whether adjusting projects to adapt to limits on travel, completing projects with less than optimal access to archives, or learning to present work effectively in the many virtual formats that emerged this year, this document makes it clear that creative activity of all kinds continued. Bravo.

As always, this document represents the wonderful breadth and variety of insights that emerge from an engaged university. Each discipline sees the world differently, as does each scholar. This is the beauty of the very notion of a university. Nevertheless, it does create a challenge in terms of style. The style employed here is a compromise, drawing on the varied disciplinary style guides (MLA, APA, Chicago) to create a unique approach for this document. Despite this mishmash of styles, you will see that students are indicated with an asterisk (*) before their names throughout. It is lovely to see those collaborations continue, even as we managed much of what we do remotely.

While not included here, I want to also note that we were very fortunate to secure several external grants this year. These, too, represent effort worthy to be recognized as scholarship, but the timing and details of each don't fit well in this document. I look forward to reports on the work that results from these funds as they move to presentations, performances, and publications. Congratulations to all who have secured these funds in 2020-2021.

Thank you all for your efforts this year. I remain impressed and humbled each time I construct this document.

Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs

2021 PROVOST'S AWARD FOR TEACHING

CONGRATULATIONS TO DR. KRISTIN GIAMANCO ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR, BIOLOGY & ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCES

Kristin received her BA in Biology with minors in Chemistry and Mathematics from Bryn Mawr College in Bryn Mawr, PA. As an undergraduate, Kristin received fellowships to conduct research at Stony Brook University in the field of Geochemistry and SUNY Upstate Medical University through the Summer Undergraduate Research Fellowship Program in Neuroscience. Then, she went on to complete her PhD in Neuroscience at SUNY Upstate Medical University in Syracuse, NY, where her work focused on elucidating the molecular composition and structure of the neuronal extracellular matrix. Kristin joined the Brain and Mind Research Institute at Weill Cornell Medical College in New York, NY to complete her post-doctoral training where she studied the molecular factors regulating cell division in the developing mammalian brain. Kristin's work was funded by the National Institute of Neurological Disorders and Stroke, a division of the National Institute of Health. During this time, Kristin was also an Adjunct Professor at Marymount Manhattan College where she taught the laboratory portion of General Chemistry as well as biology courses for non-science majors. Through this experience, Kristin recognized her passion for teaching undergraduates in the traditional classroom setting as well as in the laboratory. Kristin joined the Department of Biological and Environmental Sciences at WCSU in 2016. Her major teaching assignments include upper-level courses such as Developmental Biology and Cell Biology. In her scholarly work, Kristin seeks to understand how a particular cell cycle gene, cyclin D2, modulates progenitor proliferation in the embryonic mouse brain. In addition, Kristin's laboratory is developing cell culture models to better understand the structure and assembly of the perineuronal net, a specialized substructure of the neuronal extracellular matrix. Kristin recently received tenure and was promoted to Associate Professor.
