New versus Used Textbooks

Used textbooks are often less expensive than new. Many students enjoy the savings from using used books. Be careful to note if the new book comes with any discs or workbooks. Many used textbooks to not include those items. Additionally, some students do not like the distraction of reading a books already marked up by someone else's highlighting. You do not know what grade that person received. Some used books might have been used at another college and the highlighted materials might emphasize different material from your professor. You need to decide what works best for you.

Ebooks

Electronic versions of books are usually less expensive than printed books. Check with the WCSU Bookstore to see if an electronic version of the textbook is available.
