THE IMPACT OF TEACHER SELF-EFFICACY BELIEFS ON INSTRUCTIONAL PRACTICES FOR ENGLISH LEARNERS

Anne Heath
Dissertation Committee Chair: Pauline Goolkasian, EdD
Dissertation Committee Members: Marcia A. B. Delcourt, PhD; Helena Nitowski, EdD

The poster is a research poster for a dissertation. It includes an abstract, a review of literature, a population and sample table, a definition of terms, a statement of the problem, a research design diagram, a data analysis flowchart, and a research study timeline. The abstract states: 'This study will investigate if high teacher Self-Efficacy (SE) has an impact on the instructional practices, strategies, and supports that teachers provide to English Learners (EL) in the general education classroom setting.' The review of literature section lists works by Albert Bandura (1997), Frank Pajares (1992), Education Week Research Center (2014), Gloria Ladson-Billings (1995), and Donna Ford (1998). The population and sample table shows data for two phases. The research design is a sequential explanatory mixed methods design. The data analysis section describes a quantitative phase I (survey) and a qualitative phase II (interviews). The timeline shows the project from Dec 2018 to Spring 2020.

Group	Population	Sample	Population %
Phase 1	165	55	33
Phase 2	55	10	18
