

WESTERN CONNECTICUT STATE UNIVERSITY
MASTER OF SCIENCE IN EDUCATION
LITERACY AND LANGUAGE ARTS

ONE-YEAR / ONLINE / MASTER'S DEGREE

Register Now: New Cohorts Begin Every Summer III

"Literacy skills are the foundation upon which all learning is built. Therefore, to assist students to experience success in school and in life, teachers at all levels and from all content areas will benefit from the knowledge gained by earning their Master of Science in Education, Literacy and Language Arts." - Dr. Spatola

Find out more by contacting Dr. Annmarie B. Spatola, Coordinator for the Master of Science in Education in Literacy & Language Arts Program, SpatolaA@wcsu.edu (203) 837-8938.

Flyer

Catalog

ATTENTION CT EDUCATORS "During the last full school year, more than half of the state's third graders were not reading at grade level," CT Education Commissioner Charlene Russell-Tucker, Jan. 17, 2024. <https://www.ctinsider.com/connecticut/article/right-to-read-ct-charlene-russell-tucker-tests-18611203.php>

MAKE A DIFFERENCE Western CT State University has a one-year, online, MSED in Literacy & Language Arts Program. Requirements: 2.7 undergrad GPA; BS degree & valid teaching certification. Time extensions are granted for those who are in the process of filing for certification.

The Master of Science in Literacy & Language Arts Program is an online graduate degree designed as a cohort model that makes networking and collaboration a natural process.

Options include the following certifications:

#102 Remedial Reading Specialist

#097 Reading and Language Arts Consultant

Applications: <https://www.wcsu.edu/graduate/application/>

Submit an application for admission to the Office of Graduate Admissions.

Current WCSU students and alumni may use the Fast-Track Application System to be found on the graduate application main page with waived application fee.

Tuition Information: Contact the Office of Graduate Admissions, WCSU Midtown Campus, Old Main, Room 101, (203) 837-8243.