Western Connecticut State University
Macricostas School of Arts & Sciences
Macricostas Endowed Teaching Fellowship in Hellenic and Greek Studies
Fall 2024

Western Connecticut State University's Macricostas School of Arts and Sciences is pleased to announce that applications are being accepted for the Macricostas Endowed Teaching Fellowship in Hellenic and Modern Greek Studies for the Fall 2024 semester.

WCSU is committed to enhancing our diverse university community by actively encouraging people with disabilities, members of LGBTQIA and BIPOC communities, veterans, and women to apply. We take pride in our pluralistic community and continue to seek excellence through diversity and inclusion. WCSU is honored to be awarded the federal designation as a Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI). This accomplishment marks a pivotal moment in our progress toward fostering diversity, equity, and inclusion within our campus community.

This is a one-semester, part-time faculty appointment with the potential for renewal for up to two (2) years. The position is comprised of a three (3) credit teaching load in the incumbent's area of specialization and three (3) credits of reassigned time to develop and implement co-curricular experiences, in consultation with the Macricostas Executive Stewardship Committee, which meet the following objectives:

- Educate students, the university community, and the general public about the contributions that Ancient Greece has made to contemporary civilization;
- Invite scholarly study of the Classics and Modern Greece; and
- Demonstrably promote the discipline of Greek and Hellenic Studies at WCSU.

The Macricostas School of Arts and Sciences www.wcsu.edu/sas/ is home to nine (9) departments offering 16 undergraduate majors www.wcsu.edu/sas/undergraduate-study/ and four (4) graduate majors www.wcsu.edu/sas/graduate-degrees/ that offer a variety of ways for students to further their education. The Macricostas Endowed Teaching Fellowship is open to any discipline that involves Hellenic and Modern Greek Studies. The Macricostas Fellow will be expected to be available for interactions with students, faculty, and the general public that contribute to the intellectual life of the university and the local community. Examples of co-curricular experiences may include but are not limited to public presentations on the Macricostas Fellow's ongoing research, consulting with relevant local/regional agencies and organizations, hosting relevant speakers, and organizing trips to regional events or exhibits of relevant interest to the campus community and general public. The Macricostas Fellow will perform other duties and responsibilities, as necessary. Office space in a relevant academic department, travel funds, and shared access to clerical support will be provided. Grant opportunities are available to support research and conference attendance.

Qualifications:

- Terminal degree in an academic discipline related to Hellenic and Modern Greek Studies is required.
- A record of distinguished scholarship.
