

Ross Goldman

Acting Deputy Chief and the Senior Appellate Counsel, Criminal Division's Child Exploitation and Obscenity
Section (CEOS) at the U.S. Department of Justice

ABOUT

Ross Goldman is an Acting Deputy Chief and the Senior Appellate Counsel in the Criminal Division's Child Exploitation and Obscenity Section (CEOS) at the U.S. Department of Justice. In addition to his legal work, Ross – who also holds a Master of Education degree from the University of Virginia and who worked as a high school counselor before going to law school – helps lead CEOS's engagement in efforts to prevent the sexual exploitation and abuse of children. Before joining CEOS, Ross worked in the Criminal Division's Appellate Section, where he handled a variety of federal criminal appeals and developed a specialty in handling appeals involving a wide array of child sex crimes. Before joining the Department of Justice, Ross worked as an attorney at Covington & Burling LLP and clerked on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit. Ross graduated from the University of Virginia School of Law in 2008, where he served as Editor-in-Chief of the Virginia Law Review.